

Procedures for Scheduling the EGSA Technician Certification Exam

Ferris State University (FSU) has registered proctors at testing centers in colleges across the country. When you are ready to take the test, you must first contact FSU to determine the test site that is nearest you and they will provide you with the contact information for the registered proctor at the testing center. FSU will then email the testing center notification of your desire to take the EGSA exam and copy you in on the email. Once received, you will then contact the test center to schedule a test date that fits your schedule and that of the testing center.

After you have arranged a test date, it is imperative that you complete and submit “The Test Candidate Information Sheet” below along with the “Test Order Form” (found on the other side of this document) containing payment information. The test will then be sent to the testing center and you will be sent a tester registration form which is your entrance to the exam and must be presented at the testing center the day you test. Please note that test candidates are responsible for all proctoring fees charged by the testing centers at the time they sit for the exam. In the event that FSU doesn’t have a testing location within reasonable distance, FSU will work with you and will contact facilities in your area to arrange for testing.

Please feel free to contact FSU to obtain the contact information for the testing center nearest you or if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Ferris State University
